Baba, How Did the Prophet Take a Bath?

Mansoor:

Baba, can you tell me today,
How Prophet Muhammad used to pray?
And when he needed a special bath,
How did he follow that gentle path?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, my curious one,
Learning this is truly fun!
When the Prophet had Janabah, you see,
He bathed with care and purity.

Mansoor:

Janabah? Baba, what's that word?
It sounds a little strange and blurred!

Baba:

It happens after grown-up sleep,
A rule of Islam we always keep.
It's a special time to purify,
And follow what the Hadiths clarify.

Mansoor:

So how did the Prophet start his way?
Step by step, what did he say?

Baba:

First, he washed his hands so clean,
With care and peace, not rushed or mean.
Then came wudu, just like for prayer,
Each part with water, gentle care.

Mansoor:

And after that? What happened next?
I want the steps, not to be vexed!

Baba:

He'd dip his fingers in water wide,
And run them through his hair with pride.
He moved the roots with gentle grace,
Water touching every place.

Three times, he'd pour it on his head,
Then down his body, just as he said.
From top to toe, not missing a bit,
The Prophet showed us how to commit.

Mansoor:

Baba, that sounds so calm and wise,
Like stars that sparkle in the skies!
I'll learn these steps and keep them close,
For following Sunnah matters most.

Baba:

MashaAllah, my little star,
Your love for Sunnah will take you far.
Cleanliness brings hearts to light,
And makes our worship pure and right.

Baba, Why Did the Prophet Move His Feet?

Mansoor:

Baba, I have a question again,
It's swirling around inside my brain.
When the Prophet took a Janabah bath,
Did he always follow the same path?

Baba:

That's a thoughtful question, my dear son,
Learning the Sunnah is never done.
Once, Maimuna, his noble wife,
Described his bath, his way of life.

Mansoor:

Oh! What did she say, Baba? Please share,
I love the stories the Prophet would bear!

Baba:

She said he began just like before,

Ablution first, like prayer's chore.
But this time, he left his feet unwashed,
There was still more, not rushed or squashed.

Mansoor:

He left his feet? But why so, Baba?
Did he forget? That seems bizarre!

Baba:

No, my Mansoor, he did not forget,
There was wisdom in each step he set.
He cleaned the discharge, then washed his frame,
Each motion calm, no rush, no shame.

Then from the spot he moved away,
And washed his feet in a clean new way.
He taught us care, and how to stay,
Pure and tidy every day.

Mansoor:

So, Baba, it's not just wash and go,
It's how you do it, nice and slow.
Cleanliness comes with thought and grace,
Just like the Prophet in every place.

Baba:

Exactly, my son, that's the key,

Following Sunnah brings harmony.
Every move, with love and light,
Makes our worship pure and right.

Mansoor:

I'll follow each step, just like he taught,
With heart and care in every thought.
Thank you, Baba, for helping me see,
How blessed the Prophet's way can be.

Baba:

Alhamdulillah, your heart's so bright,
You're learning well, and doing right.
Keep asking questions, keep being true,
And Allah will surely bless you too.

Baba, What Is a Faraq?

Mansoor:

Baba, today I heard in class,
A word that made my questions amass.
My teacher said, in days gone by,
The Prophet shared a bath — but why?

Baba:

Aha, Mansoor, what you heard is true,
It's a Hadith with a lovely view.

Our Prophet ﷺ and Aisha (RA), his wife,
Shared moments full of love and life.

Mansoor:

But Baba, what's a "Faraq," can you say?
Is it something we still use today?

Baba:

A Faraq, my son, was a simple pot,
Not fancy or big — just held a lot.
From that one pot, they both would pour,
To wash and cleanse, and nothing more.

Mansoor:

They used one pot to take a bath?
That sounds so kind, it makes me laugh!
Didn't they need more water, too?
One little pot — would that really do?

Baba:

Yes, my dear, and that's the grace,
They lived with care, no waste, no haste.
They taught us sharing, peace, and cheer,
And using water with love and fear.

Mansoor:

Fear, Baba? What do you mean?

The Prophet wasn't ever mean!

Baba:

Fear of Allah — not fright, my dear,
A heart that's full of love and fear.
To waste no gift, to treat all right,
That's what brings a soul to light.

Mansoor:

So sharing water was love, not lack,
They worked together, had each other's back.
That's so sweet! I want to be,
Like the Prophet, kind and free.

Baba:

That's my boy, with heart so wide,
Always walk with faith as your guide.
Even in little things, like a bath,
Follow the Prophet's gentle path.

Baba, Why Was There a Screen?

Mansoor:

Baba, today I read something new,
About Aisha (RA) and what she would do.
She showed how the Prophet took a bath,
But there was a screen — I had to ask!

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, what you read is true,
That Hadith has a lesson too.
Abu Salama once came along,
With her brother, curious and strong.

Mansoor:

Yes! They asked about the Prophet's way,
And she showed them, without delay.
She brought a pot, not very wide,
And poured the water side by side.

Baba:

That's right, my son — just one Sa'
(About four handfuls, not a lot by far).
But did she uncover or feel no shame?
No, she placed a screen — that's why they came.

Mansoor:

A screen? Like a curtain in between?
So they couldn't look and it stayed clean?

Baba:

Exactly, my boy, she kept her grace,
With modesty shining in her space.
Though she taught and helped them learn,

She knew respect is what we earn.

Mansoor:

So Baba, even when we teach and share,
We must still act with modest care?

Baba:

Yes, my son, it's a precious way,
To protect ourselves every day.
Hijab of heart and hijab of mind,
Make us gentle, pure, and kind.

Mansoor:

I'll remember this when I grow tall,
To stay modest, whether big or small.
And teach like Aisha (RA), calm and wise,
With respect and truth in my eyes.

Baba:

MashAllah, Mansoor, your heart is bright,
You're learning the Sunnah, doing it right.
May Allah bless your every deed,
And guide you always when you lead.

Baba, How Much Water is Enough?

Mansoor:

Baba, today I read with care,
A story from the Hadith, clear and fair.
It spoke of Jabir, calm and wise,
Answering questions, to hearts' surprise.

Baba:

Ah, yes, my son, that noble man,
Was asked about Ghusl, as only he can.
He said, "One Sa is quite enough,"
Though to some, that sounded tough.

Mansoor:

One man replied, "That's far too small!"
He thought more water should surely fall.
But Jabir smiled and gently said,
"The Prophet used it, from foot to head!"

Baba:

That's right, my dear, and what a reply,
With wisdom shining from the sky.
He reminded the man with gentle tone,
That the Prophet had more hair, yet alone,
He used just a Sa — not more, not less,
And still achieved perfect cleanliness.

Mansoor:

SubhanAllah, that shows me so,

We shouldn't waste the things we know.
Even water, though it flows so free,
Should be used with care — for you and me.

Baba:
You've understood it well, my boy,
That balance brings the truest joy.
The Prophet taught us with each deed,
To use just what we truly need.

Mansoor:
So next time when I take my bath,
I'll think of Sunnah in my path.
And use my water wisely too,
Just like our Prophet used to do.

Baba:
Well done, Mansoor, you make me proud,
Learning with your heart unbowed.
May Allah guide you every day,
And keep you on the Sunnah way.

The Shared Pot of Water

Mansoor:
Baba, today I learned something new,
From a story of the Prophet, peaceful and true.

It spoke of the bath he took with Maimuna,
From a single pot, in the warmth of the sun-a.

Baba:

Ah, yes, my son, that's a good tale,
Of simplicity and care, without fail.
The Prophet ﷺ and Maimuna, so pure,
Shared one pot, and it was enough, for sure.

Mansoor:

Baba, I wonder, why just one pot?
Wouldn't more water be better, a lot?
Why didn't they take baths with many jugs?
It seems to me, a bigger bath would be a hug!

Baba:

Ah, my dear, you ask with such thought,
The lesson here is, it's not what we've got.
The Prophet ﷺ taught us this way,
To use only what we truly need each day.

Mansoor:

So, Baba, it's not the size or the amount,
But using what's enough, without a doubt?
To waste is not the way of the best,
We learn to be grateful and use what's blessed.

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, you've understood well,
The Prophet's way, with wisdom to tell.
He showed us that using less with care,
Is more pleasing to Allah, beyond compare.

Mansoor:

I see now, Baba, it's not about much,
It's about being thankful and staying in touch.
With simple things, we can live with ease,
And be grateful to Allah, who blesses us with peace.

Baba:

Well said, my son, you've caught the theme,
It's the little things that build the dream.
May Allah guide you in every way,
And bless your heart, every single day.

The Prophet's Way of Bathing

Mansoor:

Baba, today I learned from a story so wise,
It spoke of the Prophet, with his gentle ties.
He used to pour water three times on his head,
To stay clean and pure, as the Hadith said.

Baba:

Yes, my son, this is the way,
The Prophet ﷺ taught us every day.
He showed us how to be clean and neat,
In every act, he was complete.

Mansoor:
Three times, Baba, he poured the water with care,
Why not just once, or a little more to spare?
Was there a special reason for this act,
That makes his way so very exact?

Baba:
Ah, Mansoor, it's not about much or less,
But following the Prophet's way with finesse.
Three times, he showed us balance and grace,
To clean ourselves in the best possible place.

Mansoor:
So it's not about doing things for show,
But following the Sunnah, letting goodness flow?
By doing things like the Prophet so right,
We can shine with wisdom and light.

Baba:
Exactly, my son, it's about following with love,
The Prophet's actions that come from above.
In every small thing, there's a lesson to learn,

To be kind, to be clean, and for Allah to return.

Mansoor:

I understand now, Baba, it's all about care,
Not rushing through life, but stopping to share.
To follow the Prophet ﷺ with each little task,
So our hearts stay pure, and Allah's mercy we ask.

Baba:

Well said, Mansoor, you've grasped the key,
To live like the Prophet ﷺ, clean and free.
May Allah bless you and guide your way,
To follow the Sunnah every single day.

The Prophet's Three Steps to Cleanliness

Mansoor:

Baba, I learned something new today,
About the Prophet's ways, and how he would pray.
He used to pour water three times on his head,
To keep clean and pure, just as he said.

Baba:

Yes, my son, the Prophet ﷺ showed,
How to follow the right path, in all we do and know.
Three times, he washed with careful grace,
To keep his body pure, and seek Allah's embrace.

Mansoor:

But why, Baba, three times and not just one?
Is there a secret, or something more to be done?
Could one be enough, or two perhaps better?
What makes three the perfect measure?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, it's not just the number, you see,
But the way we follow the Sunnah, pure and free.
The Prophet ﷺ taught us in every little way,
To show respect for our bodies, every single day.

Mansoor:

So, Baba, it's not about rushing through,
But following the Prophet's way, steady and true.
We learn from his actions, big and small,
To be mindful in all things, and give our best to Allah.

Baba:

Exactly, my son, you've understood it well,
The Prophet's ﷺ way is the story to tell.
In everything we do, cleanliness is key,
To honor our faith, and live responsibly.

Mansoor:

I see now, Baba, it's all about care,

To wash and be clean, and show love and share.
To follow the Prophet ﷺ's way, so bright,
And live with kindness, in Allah's light.

Baba:

Well said, Mansoor, my heart is full of pride,
May Allah guide you, and always be your guide.
Remember, son, cleanliness is a sign,
Of the Prophet's ﷺ Sunnah, and Allah's divine.

The Prophet's Way of Cleanliness

Mansoor:

Baba, I heard something today,
About the Prophet's cleanliness, in a special way.
Jabir bin Abdullah shared a tale so true,
About the bath of Janaba and what to do.

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, this is a great lesson to learn,
The Prophet ﷺ's way is a guide we must discern.
He would take three handfuls of water, you see,
And pour them over his head, as part of purity.

Mansoor:

Three handfuls, Baba? Was that all?
Did he need more water, or did he stand tall?

And what about the hair, it must have been hard,
To clean all of it, like a royal guard!

Baba:

Good question, my son, the Prophet ﷺ's hair,
Was thick and long, but he didn't despair.
Even if someone had more hair than him,
He showed us that patience was key, not grim.

Mansoor:

So, Baba, it's not about how much hair we have,
But following the Sunnah with heart, to behave.
We clean ourselves, not out of haste,
But with care, respect, and no waste.

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, you've understood so well,
The Prophet ﷺ's way is the story to tell.
Cleanliness is key, in both body and mind,
It brings us closer to Allah, so gentle and kind.

Mansoor:

I will remember this, Baba, and do the same,
To follow the Prophet ﷺ's way is my aim.
With three handfuls of water, and care for my hair,
I'll stay clean and pure, in every prayer.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, for learning today,
To live by the Sunnah, in work and in play.
May Allah keep you on the straight path, so bright,
And help you stay clean, with His guiding light.

The Prophet's Cleanliness

Mansoor:

Baba, I heard a story that made me think,
About the Prophet's bath, and how he'd drink.
What did he do, when it was time to clean?
Tell me, Baba, I want to know what's seen.

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, it's a beautiful way,
The Prophet ﷺ showed us, every day.
First, he washed his hands, two or three times,
Before he did the rest, in careful rhymes.

Mansoor:

He washed his hands, Baba? Why so many times?
What was the reason behind these signs?
Was it really important to do it so much?
Tell me, Baba, I want to learn and touch.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, he taught us care,
In everything, from hands to hair.
Washing hands before we start our tasks,
Shows cleanliness in every ask.

Mansoor:

Then what happened next? Did he pour more water?
I want to learn the steps, so I don't falter.

Baba:

He poured water on his left hand,
To wash, as he followed Allah's command.
He cleaned himself with care and thought,
To teach us cleanliness in every spot.

Mansoor:

He washed his private parts, did he?
That's something I should also see.
What else did he do after that, Baba?
I want to know and follow, Insha'Allah.

Baba:

After that, he rubbed his hands on the earth,
Then rinsed his mouth, giving it worth.
He washed his nose, put water in, then blew,
These steps showed us what we should do.

Mansoor:

So, he washed his face and forearms, too?
What a beautiful way to stay pure, it's true!
Then did he pour water on his body and feet?
I'm learning so much, it feels so sweet!

Baba:

Yes, my son, he washed with care,
Showing us how to be clean, everywhere.
He finished by washing his feet, so bright,
Every step he took was a step of light.

Mansoor:

Baba, I will remember this and follow the way,
Of the Prophet ﷺ, each and every day.
I'll keep clean, and with kindness act,
Just like the Prophet ﷺ, in every fact.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, for what you've learned,
To follow the Sunnah, your heart is turned.
May Allah keep you clean, in mind and heart,
And guide you to the right from the very start.

The Prophet's Careful Cleansing

Mansoor:

Baba, I've learned about cleanliness, you see,
But now I'm curious about the Prophet's way, so free.
When he took a special bath, after Janaba's need,
Did he do anything else to keep himself pure indeed?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, that's a good question, my son,
The Prophet ﷺ's care was second to none.
After the bath, when he had cleansed his skin,
He used Hilab or a scent, to make him fresh within.

Mansoor:

Hilab, Baba? What is that scent?
Did it make him smell good, or was it Heaven-sent?
Tell me more, Baba, I want to know,
How the Prophet ﷺ's actions did glow.

Baba:

Hilab is a sweet scent, my dear,
It's a fragrance that brings calm and cheer.
The Prophet ﷺ, after his bath so pure,
Would rub this scent, a way to ensure,

Mansoor:

That he smelled nice and fresh, I bet,
But Baba, what did he do with it, you've not told me yet?
How did he use it, over his hair so bright?

I want to learn and follow his light.

Baba:

He took the scent in his hand with grace,
First on the right side of his head, in its place.
Then the left side, he rubbed with care,
And the middle, both hands made it fair.

Mansoor:

So, he used the scent on his head, I see,
And it was an important act, for you and me.
Why did he do this, Baba, with such care?
I want to understand the wisdom there.

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ showed us how to be neat,
In everything, even in the scent of our feet.
By using fragrance, he was teaching us too,
To be mindful of cleanliness in all we do.

Mansoor:

Baba, I see the beauty in every step,
How the Prophet ﷺ kept his purity in depth.
I'll remember this, and use fragrance with care,
To keep myself clean, and always aware.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, for learning this way,
The Prophet ﷺ's actions are still bright today.
May Allah help you, as you learn and grow,
To follow his footsteps, in all that you know.

The Prophet's Cleanliness

Mansoor:

Baba, I've heard about the Prophet's way,
Of taking a bath in the purest display.
Could you teach me, Baba, what he would do,
So I can be clean like he used to too?

Baba:

Ah, my son, you ask a wise thing,
The Prophet ﷺ's actions were truly a spring.
When he bathed, he did it so right,
Showing us how to stay pure and bright.

Mansoor:

Tell me, Baba, how did he start?
With water in his hands, did he do his part?
What did he wash first, and what came next?
I want to know the steps that were best.

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ began with care,

He poured water from right to left, fair.
First, he washed his hands, clean and true,
Then his private parts, to start anew.

Mansoor:

Did he need a towel or cloth, Baba dear?
I heard that sometimes, things were unclear.
What did he do when it was time to dry?
Tell me, Baba, I need to know why.

Baba:

He didn't use a towel, my son,
He washed with water, when the job was done.
After his hands, mouth, and nose so clean,
He washed his face, a routine serene.

Mansoor:

So he didn't need a cloth or towel, Baba,
He kept his body pure, with no drama.
He rinsed his mouth, his nose, and his face,
And washed his feet, to stay in grace.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, you're learning so well,
The Prophet ﷺ's actions, we must tell.
He showed us how to be clean and kind,
Purity and respect are always aligned.

Mansoor:

Baba, I'll follow the Prophet's way,
To keep my body clean every day.
I'll wash with care, and be mindful too,
So I can stay pure, just like you.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, my son,
You're learning to follow the Prophet ﷺ's fun.
May Allah guide you, and help you stay true,
In all that you do, and all that you pursue.

The Prophet's Way of Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, I have a question to ask,
About a topic that seems like a task.
I want to know, what did the Prophet do,
When he took a bath, to stay pure and true?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, a good question indeed,
The Prophet ﷺ's actions we must heed.
When he bathed, he followed a path,
Teaching us purity in every bath.

Mansoor:

Tell me, Baba, how did he start?
Did he wash with care, from head to heart?
Was it different from other times, you see,
When he bathed for purity, for you and me?

Baba:

Yes, my son, when the Prophet ﷺ bathed,
He washed his private parts first, unafraid.
He rubbed his hand on the earth, so neat,
Then washed it clean, before washing his feet.

Mansoor:

So he made sure to stay clean and pure,
He cleaned himself with actions so sure.
Then, Baba, did he do wudu too,
To keep his prayer time pure, like we do?

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, you're on the right track,
The Prophet ﷺ performed wudu, and that's a fact.
He washed his face, his arms, and his hands,
Following the steps with God's commands.

Mansoor:

And after he bathed, did he feel bright?
Was he ready for worship, with heart so light?

What did he do next, when the bath was done?
Tell me, Baba, I want to learn from the One.

Baba:

After the bath, my son, he felt so clean,
With wudu done, he was pure and serene.
He washed his feet, his actions so right,
Prepared for prayer, ready for the light.

Mansoor:

I see now, Baba, how the Prophet lived,
With purity and care, always to give.
I'll follow his steps, with each small way,
To stay clean in heart, every day.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, my dear,
Keep this teaching close, and hold it near.
Purity in body, mind, and soul,
Is a lesson that will always make you whole.

The Bath of Togetherness

Mansoor:

Baba, I've been thinking a lot,
About something in a Hadith I've caught.
The Prophet ﷺ and Aisha, so kind,

Took a bath together, as I read in mind.

Baba:

Yes, my son, you're right indeed,
The Prophet ﷺ lived with love and heed.
One pot of water, shared in turn,
An act of unity we all should learn.

Mansoor:

So, Baba, they bathed from one pot?
Their hands in the water, not a thought,
For who went first or second in line,
Just a shared moment, pure and divine?

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, that's how they were,
With love and respect, they did confer.
The Prophet ﷺ and Aisha, so pure,
They shared everything, of that I'm sure.

Mansoor:

It sounds so kind, Baba, so sweet,
Sharing a bath, each turn a treat.
It shows they cared, in every way,
No selfishness, just kindness each day.

Baba:

Yes, my son, that's the lesson, you see,
Sharing with love, makes you and me free.

The Prophet ﷺ and Aisha showed,
That kindness and love are the right road.

Mansoor:

I want to live like them, Baba dear,
In everything I do, I'll hold it near.
I'll share with others and care for all,
Just like the Prophet ﷺ did, standing tall.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, you've understood,
True love and kindness, it's always good.
Keep sharing, caring, with an open heart,
And you'll shine bright, just like a part.

The First Step in Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, I heard a story today,
About the Prophet ﷺ in a special way.
After Janaba, he took a bath,
But there's a step that caught my path.

Baba:

What did you hear, my dear son?

Tell me the lesson that has begun.
The Prophet ﷺ taught us so much,
And his actions guide us with a gentle touch.

Mansoor:
He washed his hands first, before the rest,
Even before his body, to be his best.
Cleanliness was his first thought,
Something I want to learn and be taught.

Baba:
Yes, Mansoor, you're absolutely right,
The Prophet ﷺ showed us the light.
He taught us to be clean in every way,
So we can pray and start our day.

Mansoor:
Washing hands before all things,
To stay clean as joy it brings.
It shows respect for the body we keep,
And for Allah, whom we adore so deep.

Baba:
Indeed, my son, cleanliness is key,
It helps our hearts and minds feel free.
Before prayers, and in all we do,
Purity inside and out, it's true.

Mansoor:

I'll wash my hands before each task,
Just like the Prophet ﷺ, as you ask.
Purity in mind, body, and soul,
Following his steps, my ultimate goal.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, my dear,
Keep learning and growing, have no fear.
In every action, big or small,
Purity will guide you through it all.

Sharing the Water of Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, I heard a tale so sweet,
About the Prophet ﷺ and how he'd greet,
After Janaba, he'd take a bath,
From one pot of water, no need for wrath.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, that's a beautiful story,
It shows the Prophet's ﷺ humble glory.
He shared with Aisha (RA), side by side,
Taking a bath, in purity, with nothing to hide.

Mansoor:

He used one pot, I heard it said,
No rushing, no waste, as he washed his head.
Why did he choose to do this, Baba?
Wasn't it easier to have more water, ha?

Baba:

Good question, my son, I'll tell you why,
The Prophet ﷺ showed us how to try,
To be humble, simple, and never waste,
Even in purity, there's a gentle taste.

Mansoor:

So, he wasn't selfish, sharing the water so,
Even though they both needed it to grow.
He showed that simplicity is the way,
And we can learn from it every day.

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, you're learning fast,
In every action, make it last.
Sharing with others, and being wise,
Is what makes a true Muslim rise.

Mansoor:

I'll remember, Baba, what you say,
To keep things simple, every day.

I'll share and not waste, in all I do,
Just like the Prophet ﷺ, pure and true.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, my dear Mansoor,
With these lessons, you will be pure.
Follow the Prophet ﷺ's way so bright,
And you'll always walk in the light.

The Shared Pot of Water

Mansoor:

Baba, I heard a story today,
About the Prophet ﷺ and his way.
He shared a bath with his wife so kind,
From one pot of water, their hearts aligned.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, you heard it right,
The Prophet ﷺ's actions were full of light.
He and his wife, in harmony, would share,
A single pot of water, with love and care.

Mansoor:

But Baba, that pot couldn't be too big,
How did they manage to wash and dig?
Were they not cramped, or did it feel strange?

How did they manage, not feel the change?

Baba:

Good question, my son, and I will tell,
The Prophet ﷺ's example is clear and well.
It wasn't the size of the water they had,
But the love and simplicity, which made them glad.

Mansoor:

So it was about the love they shared?
That helped them not feel burdened or scared?
By sharing the water, they showed us the way,
To live simply, with kindness every day?

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, you've understood so true,
The Prophet ﷺ taught us to be humble too.
Sharing, being grateful, is what makes us great,
It's not what we have, but how we relate.

Mansoor:

I see now, Baba, it's clear to me,
Sharing with others brings harmony.
Whether it's water, food, or a smile,
It's love and care that makes life worthwhile.

Baba:

You've learned well, Mansoor, I'm proud of you,
Live simply, share generously, and stay true.
Follow the Prophet ﷺ's example, my son,
And you'll see blessings in all that's done.

The Clean Water of Love

Mansoor:

Baba, today I learned something new,
About the Prophet ﷺ, and his way so true.
He taught us how to bathe with care,
To stay clean and pure, everywhere.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ showed us the way,
To stay clean, not just by the end of the day.
He'd wash his hands, then his private parts,
And rinse his mouth, like beautiful arts.

Mansoor:

So Baba, when the Prophet would bathe,
He'd wash his hands, then do what he saith?
He'd rinse his mouth, and his nose, you see,
And wash his face so perfectly?

Baba:

Exactly, my son, he did it with grace,

He'd wash his arms and his face, in place.
Three times he'd wash each part with care,
To show us that cleanliness is always fair.

Mansoor:

Wow, Baba, I see now what to do,
The Prophet ﷺ was so clean and true!
He'd wash his head, and his body too,
And then his feet, with water so new.

Baba:

Well done, Mansoor, you've learned so well,
The Prophet ﷺ's teachings are like a bell.
They call us to purity, inside and out,
Cleanliness is key, without a doubt.

Mansoor:

Baba, I'll wash with care each day,
Like the Prophet ﷺ, in every way.
I'll follow his steps, with love and grace,
To keep my heart clean, and stay in His embrace.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, you've understood,
Purity and cleanliness make us feel good.
Keep following the Prophet ﷺ's light,
And you'll always be blessed, and in His sight.

A Clean Heart, A Clean Body

Mansoor:

Baba, I've heard about a special way,
The Prophet ﷺ washed after the day.
He showed us how to keep clean and bright,
To follow his footsteps and do what's right.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ was pure,
He taught us how cleanliness is the cure.
After a bath, he washed with care,
His hands, his mouth, and face with prayer.

Mansoor:

Did he wash his feet, Baba?
And what about his head, was it clean?
Did he wash his body in between?
Tell me more about his washing routine.

Baba:

Oh yes, my son, he did it so well,
He washed his body, no part did swell.
First, his hands, with water pure,
Then his private parts, so clean and sure.

Mansoor:

He used his right hand, I understand,
To wash with care, and make it grand.
He rinsed his mouth, and his nose too,
Then washed his face, arms, and body through.

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, he followed the right way,
He washed with love, in the light of the day.
And when he finished, his feet were last,
Clean and pure, as the Prophet passed.

Mansoor:

Baba, I want to follow his way,
And wash like the Prophet ﷺ every day.
I'll keep my body clean and bright,
And live my life with love and light.

Baba:

I'm so proud of you, Mansoor, my dear,
Cleanliness is a gift, sincere and clear.
Just as the Prophet ﷺ did so right,
Keep your heart and body clean, with all your might.

The Prophet's Clean Routine

Mansoor:

Baba, tell me, how did the Prophet ﷺ,
Keep clean and pure, and never feel glum?
I want to know the special way,
He bathed and washed to start his day.

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ taught,
The importance of cleanliness, a lesson so sought.
When he bathed, he did it with care,
Washing his hands, face, and everywhere.

Mansoor:

Did he wash his hands first, Baba?
And did he wash his face so clear?
What about his feet—did he wash them too?
Tell me more, Baba, I want to follow through.

Baba:

Yes, my dear, he washed with delight,
He started with his hands, clean and bright.
He rinsed his mouth and cleaned his nose,
Making sure everything, as he chose, glows.

Mansoor:

Oh, how did he wash his arms and head?
I want to know, so I can do as he said!
He washed them thrice, didn't he, Baba?

Then poured water over his body, no drama!

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, you're learning fast,
He washed his forearms and head, so steadfast.
Then he poured water over his body, so pure,
To stay clean and fresh, and his heart secure.

Mansoor:

Did he wash his feet too, Baba?
Did he do all this before prayer?
I want to make sure I'm doing it right,
Just like the Prophet ﷺ in the morning light.

Baba:

Yes, my son, after all was done,
He washed his feet, just like the sun.
Now, you know the Prophet's way,
To stay clean and pure every day.

Mansoor:

I will follow the Prophet's way, Baba,
Wash my hands, feet, and mouth with care.
I'll keep my body and heart clean too,
And thank Allah for all that's true.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, my dear,
To follow the Prophet's example so clear.
Remember, cleanliness is part of faith,
And keeps you healthy in every place.

The Prophet's Strength and Love

Mansoor:

Baba, tell me, how strong was the Prophet ﷺ?
Could he visit all his wives, and still be kind?
Was he like a superhero, with special powers?
I want to learn about his strength in those hours.

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ was indeed strong,
Not because of muscles, but kindness all along.
He had many responsibilities, so much to bear,
But he was gentle, loving, and always fair.

Mansoor:

Did he visit all his wives every day?
How did he manage such a busy way?
Was he tired, Baba? Could he keep up?
Tell me more, I want to drink from this cup.

Baba:

Yes, my son, the Prophet ﷺ was so wise,

He visited his wives, under Allah's skies.
Not just during the day, but at night too,
He gave each of them love, that's what he would do.

Mansoor:

But Baba, how could he be so strong?
He had so many wives, it seems so long.
Did he rest? Was he never too tired?
What made him so strong, so kind, and admired?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, his strength came from Allah,
He was blessed, from the Creator above all.
Anas (RA) said, his strength was like thirty men,
He had the power to give and give again.

Mansoor:

Wow, Baba, that's truly amazing to hear!
The Prophet ﷺ was strong, kind, and sincere.
He didn't just care for himself, but for others,
He treated them all as dear sisters and brothers.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, and that's the lesson for you and me,
We learn from the Prophet ﷺ, how kind we should be.
To help others, and give from the heart,
Just like him, playing our loving part.

Mansoor:

I want to be like the Prophet ﷺ, Baba,
Kind and strong, with love in my heart.
I'll take care of others, and help with my might,
And always treat others with respect and light.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, for learning today,
To be like the Prophet ﷺ in every way.
Remember, strength is not just in the body you see,
But in kindness, respect, and love, that's the key.

Clean and Pure with the Prophet's ﷺ Guidance

Mansoor:

Baba, sometimes I feel unsure,
When I need to stay clean and pure.
What should I do if I feel not right?
Please teach me how to stay clean and bright.

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, it's a great question, my son,
The Prophet ﷺ taught us what must be done.
He showed us how to keep our bodies clean,
So that we can stay pure, inside and between.

Mansoor:

I want to learn, Baba, please show me the way,
What did the Prophet ﷺ teach us to stay okay?
If something happens, and I feel unclean,
What should I do to keep myself serene?

Baba:

When we feel unclean, it's important to know,
How to make wudu, and let purity flow.
Ali (RA) had a question one day,
He went to the Prophet ﷺ to ask the right way.

Mansoor:

What did the Prophet ﷺ say, Baba?
How did he help Ali (RA) that day?
Tell me, Baba, what should I do?
I want to keep my heart and body pure too.

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ said, "Wash yourself with care,"
When you feel unclean, take time to prepare.
Perform wudu, washing your organ with grace,
Purify yourself, and you'll be in a blessed place.

Mansoor:

So, it's wudu, Baba, that helps me stay clean?
It's washing with care, like the Prophet ﷺ, seen?

I'll make sure I do it with a heart so pure,
And always stay clean, that's for sure.

Baba:

That's right, Mansoor, you've understood well,
Purity is important, as the Prophet ﷺ would tell.
Cleanliness in Islam is something we must cherish,
It keeps our hearts pure and helps our spirits flourish.

Mansoor:

I will always keep myself clean,
In my actions, and all I've seen.
Thank you, Baba, for teaching me right,
Now I know how to stay clean and bright.

The Prophet's ﷺ Pure Example

Mansoor:

Baba, I've heard some things about purity,
What does it mean to be clean and free?
Is there a way to stay pure in our heart?
Please tell me, Baba, where should I start?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, you ask a question so wise,
Purity in Islam, it's not just in disguise.
The Prophet ﷺ, our guide and our light,

Taught us to stay pure, both day and night.

Mansoor:

I know, Baba, he's the best of them all,
But how does he stay pure, no matter how tall?
What did he teach about cleanliness too?
Please tell me, Baba, I want to know the truth!

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ was kind and so neat,
He cared for his body, from head to his feet.
Even when he went around his wives, so pure,
He remained Muhrim, his heart clean and sure.

Mansoor:

What's a Muhrim, Baba? I don't understand,
Is it a special rule from a holy command?
And what about the scent, I'm curious too,
Please explain it, Baba, what did he do?

Baba:

Muhrim means one who's in a sacred state,
Preparing for Hajj, where we stand and wait.
The Prophet ﷺ, with respect for the rule,
Stayed pure, even in moments that were cool.

Yes, he had scent, and it was so sweet,

But he still followed what Allah decreed, complete.
He stayed clean and followed the ways,
For a true believer, it's part of our days.

Mansoor:

So it's not just about looking clean and neat,
But staying pure, from head to my feet?
I'll follow the Prophet's ﷺ beautiful way,
And keep my heart clean, every single day.

Baba:

That's right, Mansoor, purity is key,
In body and soul, for you and for me.
The Prophet ﷺ is our example, so true,
Follow his ways, and Allah will guide you too.

Mansoor:

I'll always remember the lesson today,
To stay pure and clean in every way.
Thank you, Baba, for sharing this light,
I'll follow the Prophet ﷺ and make my heart bright.

The Glitter of Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, I heard something so special today,
About the Prophet ﷺ, in a beautiful way.

He was a Muhrim, but oh, what's this?
That there was scent in the air, like a bliss?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, you've asked a wonderful thing,
Let me tell you about that beautiful spring.
When the Prophet ﷺ, pure as could be,
Wore the scent of purity, for all to see.

Mansoor:

What does Muhrim mean, Baba, please tell?
And why was there scent, a fragrance so well?
Did the Prophet ﷺ have magic in his hair?
Is it his purity that made the air fair?

Baba:

Muhrim means when you're on a sacred quest,
For Hajj or Umrah, to do your very best.
It's a state of purity, where you must stay,
With a clean heart and soul, all along the way.

Now about the scent, it was not a trick,
But a sign of purity, a fragrance so slick.
As the Prophet ﷺ went on his holy task,
The scent from his hair was pure, that's what we ask.

Mansoor:

So the Prophet ﷺ was both clean and true,
He followed the rules that Allah gave him to do?
And even his scent showed he was pure,
What a beautiful way to keep hearts secure!

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, you've understood so right,
Purity shines, in the day and at night.
The Prophet ﷺ showed us the way,
To stay clean, in heart and body each day.

His scent was a reminder, a soft gentle breeze,
That purity is key, to live with ease.
So remember, my son, it's not just the hair,
It's the purity inside, that we must always share.

Mansoor:

I'll follow the Prophet ﷺ, with heart so pure,
To keep my soul clean, and always endure.
Thank you, Baba, for this lesson so bright,
I'll stay pure in my heart, and always do right.

The Shared Bath of Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, I heard of something I'd like to know,

About how the Prophet ﷺ took a bath, and it helped him grow.

When he was impure, did he wash in a way?
How did he stay clean after a long day?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, you've asked a question so bright,
The Prophet ﷺ, his cleanliness was a wonderful sight.
When he needed a bath, he'd start by clean hands,
Just like ablution, the way that Allah commands.

Mansoor:

So he would wash his hands, just like we do?
Then he'd take a bath, just like we're taught too?
And after that, Baba, did he rest or pray?
What did the Prophet ﷺ do after his day?

Baba:

After the ablution, he'd take his bath with care,
Rub his hair till it was wet, making sure everywhere.
He'd pour water three times, until it was all right,
His body clean and pure, ready for the night.

Mansoor:

So the Prophet ﷺ showed us, Baba, you see,
How to stay clean and pure, just like he did so free.
And with Aisha (RA), they shared the same water,

Learning from the Prophet ﷺ, as if he were our father.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, cleanliness is a Sunnah so true,
The Prophet ﷺ showed us the way to renew.
Not just in body, but in heart and mind,
To live with purity, in all that we find.

Mansoor:

I will follow the Prophet ﷺ, and stay pure,
In my heart, my hands, and even more.
Thank you, Baba, for teaching me right,
To live clean and pure, day and night.

Baba:

Remember, my son, cleanliness is a treasure,
It brings us closer to Allah, a great measure.
The Prophet ﷺ was a guide in every way,
Stay clean, stay pure, each and every day.

The Shared Bath of Togetherness

Mansoor:

Baba, I heard of a beautiful story,
About the Prophet ﷺ and his simple glory.
He and Aisha (RA), when they bathed one day,
They shared a water container, in such a loving way.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, you're right, the Prophet ﷺ did,
He and Aisha (RA) shared, with love they did bid,
From the same container, they bathed side by side,
Teaching us kindness, with nothing to hide.

Mansoor:

But Baba, was it hard to share that one spot?
What did it mean, was it something they thought?
Why did they do it, why not just alone?
Was there a lesson that we should have known?

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ was a model so bright,
In simplicity, he lived, with kindness and light.
Sharing with others, in actions so small,
Brought love to their hearts, and kindness to all.

Mansoor:

I see, Baba, it's not about the things we own,
But about sharing love, and not being alone.
When we share, we grow close, it's such a nice thing,
Like the Prophet ﷺ, and the joy that it brings.

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, sharing brings hearts near,

It teaches us kindness, and removes all fear.
The Prophet ﷺ showed us, with each gentle act,
To care for each other, with nothing intact.

Mansoor:

I will share, Baba, in every small way,
In our home, in our hearts, each and every day.
Like the Prophet ﷺ and Aisha (RA), so kind,
I'll share and spread love, in heart and mind.

Baba:

That's my dear son, you've learned a great truth,
Sharing and kindness will never be aloof.
The Prophet ﷺ taught us, with simple delight,
To love, share, and live in Allah's light.

The Prophet's Cleanliness

Mansoor:

Baba, I heard a story today,
About the Prophet ﷺ in his special way.
After Janaba, he cleaned with care,
Every step he took was so pure and fair.

Baba:

Yes, my dear Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ was,
The cleanest of all, following Allah's laws.

After Janaba, he washed with his right,
To purify his body, with a heart so light.

Mansoor:

What did he do, Baba, step by step?
How did he clean himself, with such great prep?
Did he use soap, or did he use cloth?
How did he do it, when he felt so lost?

Baba:

He poured water, first on his left and right,
Two or three times, making sure it was right.
He washed his private parts, clean and pure,
Then rubbed his hands on the earth, that's for sure.

Mansoor:

He rubbed his hands on the earth, Baba, why?
What does that teach us, oh, tell me why?
Did he use a cloth, or did he let it dry?

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ showed us a way so neat,
To purify ourselves, in a way complete.
He didn't need cloth, just his hands would do,
And from his actions, we learn what's true.

Mansoor:

So, Baba, he rinsed his mouth and nose too?
That's how we stay clean, through and through?

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, after his mouth and nose,
He washed his face and arms, to keep them close.
Water poured over his head and his body,
He cleaned himself fully, in a way so steady.

Mansoor:

Then what did he do, Baba, after the bath?
Did he need a cloth to dry his path?

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ did not need a cloth,
He wiped his body with his hand, no froth.
He taught us cleanliness in every way,
So we can follow and keep it each day.

Mansoor:

I see, Baba, cleanliness is key,
Like the Prophet ﷺ, we too must be free.
We should follow his steps, with love and care,
And stay clean always, everywhere.

Baba:

That's right, my son, you've understood so well,

Cleanliness is half of faith, as they tell.
By following the Prophet ﷺ, we stay pure,
And with each step, our hearts are secure.

The Prophet's Care Before Prayer

Mansoor:

Baba, tell me the story, I want to know,
About the time the Prophet ﷺ made the rows glow.
When the Iqama was called, the people stood tall,
But then, Baba, the Prophet ﷺ remembered it all.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, listen closely to this tale,
Of the Prophet ﷺ, and how he did not fail.
When the Iqama was heard and the rows were straight,
The Prophet ﷺ was ready, but then he did wait.

Mansoor:

Wait, Baba? What happened then? What did he do?
He was ready to pray, why did he stop too?

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ remembered, as he stood on his place,
That he was Junub and needed a bath with grace.
He could not pray without being pure,
So he took a bath, his actions so sure.

Mansoor:

So he left the Musalla to go take a bath?
What happened, Baba? Was it a long path?

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ asked the people to stay,
He didn't want them to move or delay.
He went to bathe, water dropping from his hair,
And came back ready for the prayer with care.

Mansoor:

Wow, Baba! He made sure to be pure,
Before the prayer, so it was correct and secure.
He didn't want to pray without being clean,
And his care for this, I can clearly see.

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ showed us the way,
To always be clean before we pray each day.
He said "Allahu Akbar" and began the prayer,
Teaching us all to be pure and aware.

Mansoor:

So cleanliness is important, Baba, I see,
Before prayer, we must be clean as can be.
Like the Prophet ﷺ, we must prepare,

And with purity in heart, we show that we care.

Baba:

Yes, my son, you've learned it right,
Cleanliness before prayer makes everything bright.
The Prophet ﷺ showed us the perfect way,
And we follow his example, every single day.

The Prophet's Bath

Mansoor:

Baba, tell me the story, I'm curious to know,
How did the Prophet ﷺ clean himself before the prayer's glow?
What did he do when he needed a bath?
Was there a special way he cleaned his path?

Baba:

Ah, my son, you ask a question so pure,
Let me tell you a story that will make your heart sure.
The Prophet ﷺ was always careful and neat,
When he took a bath, he did it complete.

Mansoor:

Complete, Baba? What does that mean?
Did he wash everything, like a proper routine?
Tell me, Baba, how did he do it so right?

He must have done it with care and light.

Baba:

Indeed, Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ showed us the way,
He cleaned with respect, every single day.
When he needed a bath, Maimuna (RA) would prepare,
Water for him, and she'd make sure the space was clear.

Mansoor:

So Maimuna (RA) helped him with the bath,
But what did the Prophet ﷺ do next on his path?
How did he wash himself, step by step?
Did he wash his hands first? Tell me, Baba, what's best?

Baba:

Yes, my son, first he washed his hands,
To make them clean before making his plans.
Then he poured water from his right hand,
And cleaned his private parts as part of the stand.

Mansoor:

Right hand, left hand, then what did he do?
I'm so curious, Baba, to learn all that's true!

Baba:

He rubbed his hands with earth, then washed them too,
Then he rinsed his mouth and nose, just like we do.

He washed his face, his arms, and poured water on his head,
He made sure his body was clean, just as he said.

Mansoor:

And after that, Baba, did he feel all fresh?
Did he dry himself off with a cloth or a mesh?

Baba:

No, Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ was simple and pure,
He didn't take the cloth, for the water would ensure,
He wiped his body with his hands, and so,
He kept his skin soft, in the way we all know.

Mansoor:

Wow, Baba! The Prophet ﷺ was so neat,
He cared for cleanliness, and it's such a sweet treat.
I'll try my best to be clean every day,
Just like the Prophet ﷺ in every way.

Baba:

That's right, Mansoor, cleanliness is key,
Before prayer and in life, it's the best way to be.
The Prophet ﷺ showed us the right path to follow,
Clean and pure, like a fresh, clear hollow.

A Lesson in Cleanliness

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, can you tell me more,
About how the Prophet ﷺ kept clean before?
I want to know, how did he and his wives,
Ensure they stayed pure in their daily lives?

Baba:

Ah, my son, that's a wonderful question,
Let me share with you a valuable lesson.
Our Prophet ﷺ and his family were neat,
And they followed steps that can't be beat.

Mansoor:

Oh yes, Baba, I'm listening well,
Tell me, what did Aisha (RA) tell?
How did she clean herself in the right way?
I want to learn, I'll do it today.

Baba:

When Aisha (RA) was Junub, feeling impure,
She would wash herself, and stay clean and sure.
She poured water over her head with both hands,
And rubbed her hair, as the Prophet ﷺ had planned.

Mansoor:

Both hands, Baba? Was that the way?

And she rubbed her head, what did she say?
How did she do it, can you explain?
I want to follow her steps, it's in my brain!

Baba:

Yes, my son, with water she poured,
Over her head, as the Prophet ﷺ had scored.
She rubbed the right side with one hand so neat,
And the left side with the other—what a great feat!

Mansoor:

So, she made sure to clean both sides,
Just like the Prophet ﷺ, following the guides.
I'll remember this, Baba, and always be pure,
For cleanliness and prayer, it's the best, that's for sure!

Baba:

You're right, Mansoor, cleanliness is key,
It brings us closer to Allah, as we can see.
The Prophet ﷺ and his family showed the way,
To stay pure and clean, each and every day.

Mansoor:

I'll wash my head, and be clean in prayer,
Like Aisha (RA) did, I'll show I care!
Thank you, Baba, for this lesson today,
I'll follow it, and live the right way!

The Humility of Prophets

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, please tell me a tale,
About two Prophets, who did not fail.
One was Musa, and one was Ayyub,
Both had blessings, but they stayed humble too.

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, you ask such a wise thing,
Let me tell you a story about Musa's swing.
Musa (عليه السلام) was once in a place,
Where the people bathed, all in one space.

Mansoor:

They bathed together? Oh, how strange!
Didn't they feel shy? Was there any change?
But why did Musa bathe alone, Baba?
I'm curious, tell me more, please do!

Baba:

Musa (عليه السلام) was different, humble in his way,
He bathed alone, to keep things that way.
The people asked, "Why doesn't Musa join?"
They thought there was something wrong, some defect to avoid.

Mansoor:

What happened next, Baba, tell me more,
Did Musa say, "I'm fine, don't ignore?"
What did he do when they were all confused?
Was there a moment when they were amused?

Baba:

One day Musa went out to bathe, as was his plan,
He placed his clothes on a stone, and ran!
But the stone ran away, with his clothes so fast,
Musa cried, "My clothes! Return at last!"

Mansoor:

The stone ran away, Baba, that's quite funny!
Musa was chasing it, wasn't that sunny?
But when the people saw, what did they say?
Did they laugh at him, or look away?

Baba:

The people saw Musa, and to their surprise,
He had no defect, no problem in his size.
They realized that Musa was truly pure,
And in humility, he did endure.

Mansoor:

That's so beautiful, Baba, how humble he was,

Even when people doubted, he stayed with Allah's cause.

I think I know another story too,
About Ayyub (عليه السلام) and his faith so true.

Baba:

Yes, you are right, Mansoor, my dear,
The story of Ayyub is so clear.
When Ayyub was tested with pain and disease,
Golden locusts fell on him, like a breeze.

Mansoor:

Locusts falling, but Ayyub didn't complain,
He collected them, not for money or gain.
But when Allah asked, "Do you need these, Ayyub?"
Ayyub said, "No, my Lord, Your blessings are enough!"

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, Ayyub showed us the way,
To trust in Allah, and never stray.
Even when blessed, he knew not to boast,
Humility and trust are what matter the most.

Mansoor:

I'll remember this, Baba, in all that I do,
To stay humble, and trust Allah too.
Just like Musa and Ayyub, I'll pray,
And thank Allah for His blessings every day.

Ayyub's Humble Heart

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, tell me please,
Of Prophet Ayyub, and his deep ease.
How did he show his love for Allah?
Was it in times of peace, or in times of flaw?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, you seek wisdom true,
Let me share a story about Ayyub (عليه السلام) for you.
He was a Prophet, humble and wise,
With patience in his heart, and trust in his eyes.

Mansoor:

What happened to Ayyub, Baba? Tell me more,
Why was he so patient when life was a chore?
Did he have everything, wealth and land?
And why did golden locusts fall in his hand?

Baba:

Indeed, Mansoor, Ayyub (عليه السلام) had wealth, health, and might,
But one day, Allah tested him with a plight.
His body was sick, and his wealth was gone,
But Ayyub stayed faithful, his heart was strong.

Mansoor:

So, what about the locusts, Baba, do you know?
Golden locusts falling, as if from the sky's glow?
Was Ayyub happy, to see such gold rain?
Did he take it all, without any strain?

Baba:

When the golden locusts fell down like rain,
Ayyub (عليه السلام) gathered them, not for his gain.
He collected them in his clothes, one by one,
But his Lord called out, "Ayyub, my son!"

Mansoor:

What did Allah say, Baba, to Ayyub?
Did He say, "Stop! You're collecting too much, too soon?"
Why did Ayyub not let go of the gold?
Wasn't he enough, with blessings so bold?

Baba:

Allah asked, "O Ayyub, haven't I given enough?"
"Are you in need of this gold, rough and tough?"
Ayyub replied with honor, and love so pure,
"Yes, O my Lord, but I cannot refuse Your blessings, that's for sure!"

Mansoor:

So, Ayyub loved his blessings, no matter the cost,
He cherished them, never feeling lost.
He showed gratitude, not greed in his heart,
Even when gold fell, he didn't depart.

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, Ayyub's heart was true,
He trusted Allah, and His blessings grew.
Though he had much, he remained humble and kind,
This is the lesson, for us to find.

Mansoor:

I see, Baba, I understand it now,
To trust in Allah's blessings, and humble is how,
Not to boast, or gather for greed,
But to love what Allah gives, and follow His lead.

The Respectful Bath

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, tell me please,
What happened on the day of Makkah's peace?
Did the Prophet ﷺ take a bath so pure?
And what did his daughter, Fatima, ensure?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, you ask with care,

Let me share a story beyond compare.
When Makkah was conquered, a great day indeed,
The Prophet ﷺ, with his family, took heed.

Mansoor:

What did the Prophet ﷺ do, Baba, tell me so,
When he took a bath, with love to show?
Did someone help him, or did he go alone?
What happened when Um-Hani came to his home?

Baba:

Um-Hani, dear Mansoor, was a noble soul,
She came to the Prophet ﷺ, with a heart so whole.
She found him bathing, with Fatima by his side,
Screening her father, with love and pride.

Mansoor:

But Baba, why was Fatima there, so kind?
What did she do, with her gentle mind?
Was it common to help, in such a way?
Was there a reason Fatima chose to stay?

Baba:

Fatima, my son, was gentle and pure,
She loved her father, and cared for him sure.
She helped him, protecting his modesty too,
For modesty is important, in all that we do.

Mansoor:

So, Baba, Fatima showed respect so high,
For her father ﷺ, in the blink of an eye!
But what did the Prophet ﷺ say to Um-Hani?
Did he greet her with love, when she came so kindly?

Baba:

Indeed, Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ smiled,
When Um-Hani entered, with grace so mild.
He asked, “Who is it?” with a voice so sweet,
And Um-Hani replied, “It’s me, I come in peace.”

Mansoor:

Oh, Baba, I see now, the love they had,
Fatima and the Prophet ﷺ, both good and glad.
They treated each other with kindness and care,
With respect and love, beyond compare.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, respect is key,
For our parents, family, and all that we see.
The Prophet ﷺ showed us how to be,
Modest, kind, and full of dignity.

Mansoor:

I understand now, Baba, with all my heart,

To love with respect, and play my part.
In modesty and care, I'll follow the way,
Of the Prophet ﷺ, each and every day.

The Purity of a Clean Heart

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, tell me, please,
How did the Prophet ﷺ cleanse with ease?
Did he take a bath in a special way?
What did he teach us, each new day?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, my son so wise,
Let me share a story, full of ties.
The Prophet ﷺ, pure and bright,
Showed us how to keep our hearts light.

Mansoor:

What did he do when it was time to bathe?
Did he clean in a way that made him safe?
How did he show us how to stay pure,
And teach us lessons we must endure?

Baba:

When the Prophet ﷺ needed to cleanse,
He performed his bath with great reverence.

Maimuna (RA) would screen him with care,
As he washed himself, so humble and fair.

Mansoor:

Did he wash his hands before anything else?
And what about his feet, Baba, tell me the truth!
How did he stay pure and clean each day,
When he showed us the right and holy way?

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ washed his hands,
Poured water with care, following Allah's commands.
He cleaned his private parts with his right hand first,
Then rubbed his hands on earth, as we must when we thirst.

Mansoor:

Did he wash his feet too, Baba, just the same?
Or did he do something different, in Allah's name?
How did he make sure he stayed clean and right,
Following Allah's way, day and night?

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ washed his body with grace,
Then moved to a place to wash his feet in place.
He followed the steps with patience and care,
Teaching us the way to keep ourselves fair.

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I now understand,
How the Prophet ﷺ cleansed by Allah's hand.
Purity of body and heart is key,
To stay close to Allah, from sin we must be free.

Baba:

Yes, my son, purity is the way,
To seek Allah's mercy, every day.
We follow the Prophet ﷺ in all we do,
For cleanliness in both body and soul is true.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, for the story so bright,
I'll remember to stay pure, and do what's right.
In cleanliness, both body and heart,
We follow the Prophet ﷺ in every part.

The Importance of Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I've been thinking so deep,
About something I heard that made me leap.
Um-Salama asked the Prophet ﷺ one day,
About a question she needed to say.

Baba:

Ah, my son, I know what you mean,
It's a question that came from a heart so keen.
Um-Salama asked, so wise and true,
About a woman's purification after a dream, too.

Mansoor:

What was the question that she did ask?
And how did the Prophet ﷺ answer the task?
What did he say to the lady, so bright,
That helped her learn what's pure and right?

Baba:

She asked, "O Prophet ﷺ, please tell me the way,
If a woman has a dream at night, should she pray?"
Is it necessary to take a bath after a dream,
When a woman notices something in her stream?

Mansoor:

What did the Prophet ﷺ say to her?
Did he tell her something important to confer?
Did he teach her the way to stay pure and right,
So she could keep herself clean day and night?

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ, wise and kind,
Said to her with a thoughtful mind,

“Yes, if she sees a discharge, she must take a bath,
To stay pure and clean, following the right path.”

Mansoor:

But Baba, why is it important to stay pure?
What does cleanliness in heart and body ensure?
How do we learn from this, my dear?
To be close to Allah, and hold Him near?

Baba:

Purity, my son, is part of our faith,
It helps us keep our hearts full of grace.
By being clean and pure each day,
We honor Allah in every way.

Mansoor:

Now I understand, Baba, so clear,
That purity is important, both far and near.
It's not just the body, but the heart, too,
When we stay pure, we stay close to You.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, remember this well,
Purity helps us from darkness repel.
By following the Prophet ﷺ's way,
We stay close to Allah, come what may.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, for the lesson today,
I'll keep my heart and body pure every day.

In purity, I'll find peace and light,
Following the path that's always right.

Purity in Every Moment

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I have a question to ask,
About a story that's hidden behind a mask.
It's about a time when Abu Hurairah was near,
And something happened that I need to hear.

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, I know the story you seek,
It's a lesson of purity, humble and meek.
Abu Hurairah was walking one day,
When the Prophet ﷺ came along his way.

Mansoor:

What happened next, Baba, do tell,
What lesson did this story spell?
Why did Abu Hurairah feel the need to go,
And what did the Prophet ﷺ want him to know?

Baba:

Abu Hurairah was Junub, you see,
He had just finished a task and felt unclean to be.
He slipped away quickly, feeling the need,
To cleanse himself before joining the Prophet's ﷺ lead.

Mansoor:

But Baba, why did he feel that way?
Why didn't he stay and with the Prophet ﷺ pray?
What did the Prophet ﷺ say to him,
That showed kindness and not a single whim?

Baba:

When Abu Hurairah returned, the Prophet ﷺ smiled,
He asked him, "Where have you been, my child?"
Abu Hurairah replied with honest care,
"I was Junub and did not want to be there."

Mansoor:

And how did the Prophet ﷺ react to his words?
What did he say to show his heart was stirred?
Was he upset or did he show grace,
And teach him a lesson in this holy place?

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ, with kindness and light,
Said, "Subhan Allah! A believer is pure in sight."
"A believer never becomes impure,"

“Even in moments that may seem unsure.”

Mansoor:

So Baba, what does this lesson mean,
That the Prophet ﷺ shared, so serene?
How can we learn from this wisdom, true,
To stay pure in all that we do?

Baba:

It teaches us, Mansoor, that we should always care,
For our purity, whether we're here or there.
In every moment, we seek to stay clean,
Physically and spiritually, like the Prophet ﷺ's serene.

Mansoor:

I understand now, Baba, so bright,
Purity is a treasure that shines with light.
No matter where we are, or what we do,
We must stay pure in heart and view.

Baba:

Yes, my son, remember this always,
Purity keeps us close to Allah's ways.
With every action, stay pure and true,
And you'll find peace in all you pursue.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, for this lesson today,
I'll always keep my heart pure in every way.
In every moment, I'll do my part,
To remain pure, with a clean heart.

The Prophet's ﷺ Kindness and Care

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I have a thought,
About a lesson I've just sought.
It's about the Prophet ﷺ and his wives,
How did he balance so many lives?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, that's a question true,
About the Prophet ﷺ and what he'd do.
He was kind and caring, gentle in heart,
Always fair, never playing a part.

Mansoor:

But Baba, he had so many wives,
How did he treat them, while balancing their lives?
Did he visit them all in just one night?
How did he keep everything just right?

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, the Prophet ﷺ was wise,

He had nine wives, but he always prized,
Fairness, kindness, and love so true,
He treated each with respect, as they deserved too.

Mansoor:

Did he ever favor one over another?
Was there ever any tension, any bother?
How did he manage all of his time,
To keep his family in perfect rhyme?

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ was just and kind,
He balanced his duties with a thoughtful mind.
He visited them all, one by one,
And treated each with love, under the sun.

Mansoor:

So Baba, what lesson do we learn here,
About fairness and love so dear?
What can we take from the Prophet's ﷺ ways,
To follow in our own lives and days?

Baba:

We learn from the Prophet ﷺ's care,
That fairness and kindness are always there.
No matter how many, treat all with love,
As the Prophet ﷺ did, guided from above.

Mansoor:

So Baba, if I have many friends or more,
I should treat them kindly and never ignore.
Each one deserves love, respect, and time,
Just like the Prophet ﷺ, so pure and sublime.

Baba:

Exactly, my son, that's the key,
To treat others kindly and equally.
No matter the number, no matter the need,
Love and fairness in every deed.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, for sharing this light,
Now I'll remember the Prophet's ﷺ sight.
In every action, with love and care,
I'll treat others kindly, always fair.

The Purity of a Believer

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I have a thought,
About a lesson I've just sought.
It's about the Prophet ﷺ and what he said,
When he taught us how to keep pure and spread.

Baba:

What is it, my son, that you'd like to know?
Let's explore this together, and let the wisdom flow.
Tell me your thought, and I'll share with care,
The beautiful lessons the Prophet ﷺ would bear.

Mansoor:

I read about Abu Hurairah, who was Junub,
And the Prophet ﷺ, who didn't make him feel doomed.
He took his hand, though he was impure,
And said, "A believer's purity will always endure."

Baba:

Yes, my dear, that's a powerful truth,
The Prophet ﷺ taught with love, in youth and in tooth.
He said, "A believer never becomes impure,"
For in faith, purity is always secure.

Mansoor:

But Baba, if a believer can't be impure,
How do we stay clean and always ensure,
Our hearts and our actions are pure and bright,
Following the Prophet ﷺ, with all our might?

Baba:

Good question, my son, let me share,
To be pure, we must always care.

Purity comes in both body and soul,
By seeking cleanliness, we make ourselves whole.

Mansoor:

So Baba, if we stay clean in our hearts,
And in our bodies, playing our parts,
Then we follow the Prophet ﷺ's way,
And remain pure each and every day?

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, that's the key,
Purity in faith, as pure as can be.
We keep our hearts clean with love and grace,
And we stay pure in every space.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, for this lesson so true,
Now I know what I must always do.
To keep my heart pure and my actions bright,
I'll follow the Prophet ﷺ, with all my might.

Purity Before Rest

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I have a question for you,
About something I've read, and I'm curious too.
It's about the Prophet ﷺ and his nightly rest,

When he was Junub, did he do what's best?

Baba:

Ah, my son, you ask a question so wise,
Let me share with you a beautiful prize.
The Prophet ﷺ, with guidance so clear,
Taught us the way to stay pure and sincere.

Mansoor:

I read that he used to sleep at night,
Even when Junub, not feeling quite right.
But he did something before going to bed,
He made ablution, as the Hadith said.

Baba:

Yes, indeed, the Prophet ﷺ did so,
He showed us the way, in his actions aglow.
Before he rested, he would perform ablution,
To keep his heart and body in a state of solution.

Mansoor:

So Baba, it's not just for prayer we must,
Keep ourselves pure, in Allah we trust?
Even before sleep, to keep us clean,
The Prophet ﷺ's example, so serene?

Baba:

Exactly, my son, purity is key,
For every action, in all we decree.
Before sleep, after prayer, or any time of day,
We wash our hearts and hands, keeping impurities at bay.

Mansoor:

I understand now, Baba, and I will try,
To follow the Prophet ﷺ, with my head held high.
Before I sleep, I'll make ablution true,
To keep my heart and body pure too.

Baba:

Well said, my son, you've learned so much,
Purity is a gift, a special touch.
In all that you do, keep yourself pure,
And Allah's mercy will be your secure.

Sleeping with Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I've been thinking tonight,
About something I read, and I need some light.
The Prophet ﷺ, when Junub, could he sleep?
Or must he stay awake, with purity to keep?

Baba:

Ah, my son, you ask a wise question so bright,

The Prophet ﷺ, in his wisdom, knew what's right.
He taught us how to stay clean and pure,
Even when Junub, the rule is sure.

Mansoor:

But Baba, can we sleep, even when we're not clean?
If we're Junub, does that mean we must stay awake and lean?
Can we rest and sleep, if we've not yet bathed?
I need to know, so I'm not afraid.

Baba:

My son, the Prophet ﷺ, with knowledge so clear,
Gave us the way to stay pure without fear.
Yes, you can sleep, even when Junub, it's true,
As long as you perform ablution, and then you're good to go too.

Mansoor:

So Baba, it's ablution that keeps us pure,
Before we sleep, that's the key for sure!
We wash our hearts and hands, then rest without fright,
And sleep with the peace of knowing we're right.

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, you've understood it well,
Purity in every action, as the Prophet ﷺ would tell.

Even when tired, or needing to sleep,
Perform ablution, and you'll be pure, not to weep.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, I'll follow this way,
Before I sleep, I'll purify every day.
With ablution, I'll rest, and my heart will be light,
Just like the Prophet ﷺ, who always did right.

Baba:

Well done, my son, you've learned so much,
Purity is a gift, and it's always within our touch.
Sleep with peace, and keep yourself clean,
In all you do, stay pure and serene.

The Path to Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I have a question today,
About something I read, and I must say,
The Prophet ﷺ, when he was Junub at night,
How did he sleep and keep his heart light?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, a wonderful question indeed,
Let me tell you, and you will take the lead.
The Prophet ﷺ, with wisdom so clear,

Showed us the way, so there's no need to fear.

Mansoor:

Did he sleep without worry, or did he stay awake?
Was there a special way, for his own sake?
Did he bathe, or something else was done?
Tell me, Baba, I'm eager to learn from him, the one.

Baba:

When the Prophet ﷺ was Junub, my son,
He didn't stay awake, nor did he run.
He washed himself, his private parts too,
Then he performed ablution, as we are taught to do.

Mansoor:

So Baba, before sleep, he washed and prayed,
And with ablution, his purity stayed?
That's the way to keep clean, even in sleep,
And follow the example that's ours to keep?

Baba:

Yes, Mansoor, you've understood so well,
Purity is a treasure, as the Prophet ﷺ would tell.
Before resting, wash and perform ablution,
And you'll be pure, with no confusion.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, for this wisdom so pure,
I'll follow this way, and keep my heart sure.

Before I sleep, I'll wash and pray,
And keep myself clean, as I rest each day.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, my son, for learning with care,
Purity is a blessing, a treasure so rare.
Remember, always, to stay clean and bright,
Just like the Prophet ﷺ, shining with light.

The Path to Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I have a thought to share,
I read about something that made me care.
The Prophet ﷺ, in his wisdom so bright,
How did he rest when he was in the night?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, a good question indeed,
Let me tell you the answer you need.
The Prophet ﷺ, our guiding light,
Showed us the way, so we sleep right.

Mansoor:

Did he sleep when he was Junub, just like us?

I thought he couldn't, that's why I fuss!
But if he could sleep, what did he do?
What steps did he take to stay pure, too?

Baba:

The Prophet ﷺ, in his great care,
Would perform ablution, and sleep with prayer.
When he was Junub, he didn't stay awake,
He washed, made ablution, for purity's sake.

Mansoor:

So Baba, he performed ablution before sleep?
That's how his purity he'd keep?
He washed and then rested, without any fear,
And we can do that too, and stay pure, my dear?

Baba:

Exactly, Mansoor, you've understood it well,
Purity in our hearts, is a treasure to tell.
Before we sleep, we wash and pray,
And keep our hearts pure, every day.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, for teaching me right,
I'll follow the Prophet ﷺ's example tonight.
I'll wash and pray, then sleep in peace,
With purity in my heart, that will never cease.

Baba:

I'm proud of you, Mansoor, for learning so true,
Purity is a gift, and it starts with you.
Remember always, as you grow and see,
Purity brings peace, and sets you free.

The Path to Purity Before Sleep

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I have a question to ask,
I was thinking about something, a small task.
If we become Junub, at night when we lay,
How should we sleep? Can we rest that way?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, you're curious and wise,
Let me share with you what the Prophet ﷺ did, to your surprise.

When the Prophet ﷺ became Junub at night,
He knew just what to do, with purity in sight.

Mansoor:

But Baba, if we are Junub, can we rest?
It seems like a problem, a real test!
Can we sleep with peace, without a care?
Or do we have to stay awake and prepare?

Baba:

No, Mansoor, we don't need to stay up,
The Prophet ﷺ taught us, we can sleep with a cup.
Of cleanliness and purity, before we rest,
We just need to wash and perform the best.

Mansoor:

So Baba, after becoming Junub, what should we do?
How do we stay pure before we sleep through?

Baba:

Just as Umar bin Al-Khattab asked the Prophet ﷺ too,
He was told, 'Wash your private parts, then perform
ablution, too.'

After that, you may rest, with peace in your heart,
Purity is maintained, and sleep can start.

Mansoor:

So we wash and pray before we sleep, like this?
And purity stays with us, bringing bliss?
I understand now, Baba, it's clear to see,
Performing ablution keeps us pure and free!

Baba:

Yes, my dear Mansoor, you've learned it right,
Purity keeps us close to Allah, day and night.

So whenever you feel Junub, just follow this way,
Perform ablution and rest, with peace and sway.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, for teaching me today,
I'll follow the steps that the Prophet ﷺ showed, and pray.

With purity in my heart, I'll sleep with peace, so true,
And always keep my heart pure, just like you!

The Importance of Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I've been thinking today,
About how we should stay clean in every way.
When do we need to make sure we're pure?
I don't quite understand, Baba, I'm not so sure.

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, you're asking an important thing,
Purity and cleanliness, these are the teachings we bring.
When we engage in certain acts, you see,
A special kind of bath is required, as taught by our Nabi.

Mansoor:

What do you mean, Baba, a special bath?
Is it when we play outside or take a math bath?

Or does it have something to do with sleep?
Can you explain, Baba, for this knowledge I seek?

Baba:

When a person becomes impure in a certain way,
It's important to bathe, and then we may pray.
The Prophet ﷺ taught us the right way to stay pure,
When certain actions happen, a bath is needed, that's for sure.

Mansoor:

So after what happens, Baba, must we clean?
Can you tell me, so I know what you mean?
I want to stay clean and pure in my heart,
So I follow Allah's path from the very start.

Baba:

It's when a man and woman come close, as they do,
In a way that requires a bath, to stay pure and true.
The bath isn't just for washing, but a sign,
That purity and cleanliness are part of the divine.

Mansoor:

Ah, now I understand, Baba, so clear,
Purity helps us draw closer to Allah, with no fear.
We bathe and stay clean, as the Prophet ﷺ taught,
To be pure and respectful in all that we sought.

Baba:

Exactly, my son, you've understood well,
Purity is important, as the Prophet ﷺ did tell.
Keep your heart and body clean, always strive,
For Allah's pleasure, and to feel truly alive.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, for teaching me so right,
I will stay clean and pure, day and night.
I'll always follow the path, with love and care,
To stay close to Allah, in peace and prayer.

Purity and Cleanliness

Mansoor:

Baba, Baba, I have a question today,
About cleanliness and what the Prophet ﷺ did say.
What should we do if we get impure?
How do we stay clean, and what's the proper cure?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, that's a great thing to ask,
Purity and cleanliness are part of the task.
When we do things that make us impure,
We need to clean ourselves to stay pure.

Mansoor:

But Baba, how do we know when it's time?
What should we do to make our actions sublime?
How can we be pure, just like the Prophet ﷺ?
Please tell me, Baba, I want to be calm.

Baba:

When certain actions happen, we must be aware,
To stay pure, we should clean ourselves with care.
Washing is a sign of respect, that's true,
For ourselves, and for the prayer we do.

Mansoor:

But Baba, do we just wash with water?
Do we clean our hands and then we're done?
What should we do if we feel impure?
I want to be clean, that's for sure!

Baba:

It's more than washing just the hands,
We must clean every part as Allah demands.
When we perform ablution, we wash and pray,
This helps keep our hearts and souls in a pure way.

Mansoor:

So it's important to keep clean, Baba, I see,

It helps us stay pure, just like the Prophet ﷺ did for thee.

And after certain actions, we do as He taught,
We bathe, stay clean, and stay pure, as we ought.

Baba:

Exactly, my son, that's how we should be,
Cleanliness brings us closer to Allah, you see.
We follow the Prophet ﷺ in all that we do,
To be pure, respectful, and spiritually new.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, I understand now,
I'll stay clean and pure, and I know how.
I'll follow the teachings, I'll do what's right,
To keep my heart and body clean and bright.

The Path to Purity

Mansoor:

Baba, I have a question so clear,
About staying pure, and what we should fear.
Sometimes I wonder, when we do things wrong,
What must we do to stay clean all along?

Baba:

Ah, Mansoor, my son, a question so wise,

Staying clean is a key, as we strive to rise.
When we act in ways that may cause impurity,
We must clean ourselves to stay in purity.

Mansoor:

But Baba, when we don't do all the way,
And still wish to pray, what should we say?
If we touch and don't release, does that mean we're impure?
How do we make sure our hearts stay pure?

Baba:

If ever such a thing happens, my dear,
Don't worry, don't fret, there's nothing to fear.
We wash the parts that were in contact, you see,
Then perform ablution, as pure as can be.

Mansoor:

So if we wash and clean with care,
And pray with purity, we have no despair?
What if I'm still unsure, Baba, what then?
Can you guide me again and again?

Baba:

Yes, my son, the path is clear,
Wash with care, and keep your heart sincere.
You can always perform ablution too,

It keeps you pure, as the Prophet ﷺ would do.

Mansoor:

Thank you, Baba, now I know what to do,
To stay pure and clean, with a heart so true.
I'll follow the teachings, with love and respect,
And stay pure in my actions, with no regret.

Baba:

That's right, Mansoor, I'm proud of you,
Purity is the key to what we do.
By following the Prophet ﷺ's light,
We remain clean, and our hearts shine bright.
